

Dissertation Research:

“Framing Islam: A Study of American Perceptions of Muslim Immigrants and Islam”

In this project, I aim to identify the frames through which Americans perceive Muslims and Islam, examine how those frames shape sentiments toward this immigrant population and religion, and examine the extent to which certain frames are associated with Americans’ demographic backgrounds, affiliations, and practices.